

The New Yorker Magazine migrates to Puggpig Publish

New York, 15th July 2019

At 5am on Monday 15th July 2019, The New Yorker Magazine completed their migration from Adobe DPS to Puggpig Publish.

This marks the beginning of a global deal that Puggpig (Kaldor Ltd) recently signed with Condé Nast to launch apps on Puggpig Publish across their entire portfolio of titles in the USA, France, Germany, Russia and Taiwan (to add to the existing portfolio of Condé Nast Great Britain apps that we launched a few years ago).

Jonny Kaldor, CEO of Puggpig said: “Massive congrats to the Puggpig team (especially Hannah, Kenny, Steve, Will, Lucy, Munaib, Benji and Dom - and pretty much everyone else on the team!) for doing an amazing job and huge thanks to the Condé Nast team for believing in us.”

The New Yorker Magazine app on iTunes here.